TONIGHT'S GAME NOTES ...

Messiah suits up for another crucial Commonwealth Conference contest this evening, as tonight's blizzard-delayed tilt with Lebanon Valley College has monstrous implications on both teams' post-season hopes. . .with just two regular-season games remaining, the Falcons could still finish anywhere from third to seventh in the final league standings. . .a Messiah win tonight would guarantee a berth in the C'wealth's four-team tournament, but LVC is not without cause, either: With a 6-6 league record coming in, the Dutchmen have a legitimate shot at crashing the post-season party as well. . .perhaps no team has been hotter than Lebanon Valley, as the Dutchmen have won four of their last five conference tilts. . .that's a stark contrast to LVC's state of affairs the first time it met up with Messiah this season, as a 65-63 loss came in the midst of an eight-game losing streak – a slump complete with five losses coming by two points or less. . .Messiah, meanwhile, had a three-game winning streak snapped here Tuesday night in a 66-79 loss to Lycoming College. . .a win would have secured Messiah a place in the upcoming league tournament. . .seniors Jamie Yoder and Kyle Snyder will be honored prior to tonight's game. . . Andy Hawk will present the awards to his classmates, as he will be back next season on a medical redshirt.

Senior Jamie Yoder will be honored tonight along with classmate Kyle Snyder, but the pair have work to do.
