About Endicott...

How The Gulls Got Here: Endicott is making its seventh straight NCAA Tournament appearance and arrives via automatic berth, as the Gulls claimed The Commonwealth Coast Conference Championship — the Gulls' sixth league title in the last seven years. . .Endicott's lone at-large bid came last season, when Roger Williams University dealt the team a 1-0 defeat in the TCCC title game, scoring with just 19 seconds remaining in regulation. . .despite that shocker, the Gulls handed Nazareth College a 1-0 loss in the opening round before falling to eventual Final Four participant, William Smith College, by a 1-1, 4-3 penalty-kick decision in the second round. . .Caitlin Flynn is the TCCC Player of the Year for two seasons running, while fifth-year senior goalkeeper Amy Meuse has allowed just one goal since rejoining the team Oct. 3rd.

About Farmingdale State...

How The Rams Got Here: Farmingdale State claimed its third straight Skyline Conference Championship this year, earning its third consecutive automatic bid into the NCAA Tournament as a result. . .the Rams defeated Bard College by a 1-0 score in this year's league title match, complementing an 8-0-1 record during regular-season conference play. . .FSU was dominant through that stretch, outscoring league opponents by a 49-1 difference. . .such numbers were impressive considering the collective youth of the Rams, as 21 freshmen help comprise a 31-athlete roster. . .four of those first-year players were named all-conference. . . head coach Chris Roche has turned around a program that had never qualified for NCAA play before his arrival in 2005. . .in the three years before Roche took over, FSU went 10-36-3 overall.

About SUNY Geneseo...

How The Blue Knights Got Here: SUNY Geneseo played spoiler for some team awaiting a potential at-large berth in this year's NCAA Tournament, as the Blue Knights shocked sixth-ranked Cortland State University by a 2-1 score in the SUNYAC Championship to earn its first NCAA berth since the 1994 season. . .Geneseo started the conference season with an 0-3-1 record, but went unbeaten in its last nine games, culminating with its fourth league title and first since '94. . . the Blue Knights outscored their opponents by a 16-5 difference during their magical run, relying on a sturdy defense anchored by three-time All-SUNYAC defender Lindsey Feuz. . .Geneseo is not one to waste opportunities, however, as the program advanced all the way to the national semi-finals in its last NCAA post-season appearance.
