

Can a Scientist Believe in Miracles?

Christianity can't be true if science disproves the possibility of a miracle.

But does science really do this?

For an adequate answer, we need to understand what science is and what a miracle is.

Ian Hutchinson,
*Professor of Nuclear Science Engineering
at the Massachusetts Institute of Technology,*
offers a thoughtful examination of these two topics through the discussion of his book, Can a Scientist Believe in Miracles? which addresses hundreds of varied and tough questions that have been posed to him by students.

Tuesday November 5 7:00 p.m.
Hostetter Chapel

---

A question and answer time will be included

---

Sponsored by The Central Pennsylvania Forum for Religion and Science, the Messiah College Honors Program and College Ministries

