Questions about this email should be directed to Wendy Starner, Controller.

Dear Students:

You may be aware that a recently enacted Pennsylvania Voter Law will require voters to show an acceptable photo ID at the polls starting with the general election on November 6, 2012. Acceptable forms of voter identification will include passports, driver's licenses and student IDs that include an expiration date.

In an effort to equip students who do not have other forms of acceptable identification with the ability to vote in the upcoming general election, the Falcon Exchange at Messiah College has expiration date stickers that can be added to your student ID to make them compliant with state requirements.

If you are a newly enrolled student, your ID already includes an expiration date. However, if you are a returning student and you anticipate needing your student ID for voter identification this November (i.e. you don't have a current driver's license or passport), please go to the Falcon Exchange (second floor of the Eisenhower Campus Center, near Lottie) and request an expiration sticker for your ID. There is no charge for the sticker.

You can read more about Pennsylvania's new voter ID requirements at http://www.votespa.com/portal/server.pt/community/home/13514.