

SCOTT A. HEINTZELMAN BIOGRAPHY

Mr. Scott Heintzelman holds a B.S. in accounting from Messiah College and is a Partner with McKonly & Asbury, LLP. His role with McKonly & Asbury is Partner in Charge of the Family Business Group and in doing so, provides services to some of the region's most well known businesses. He is also in the process of writing a book on the "Six Steps to Strengthening Your Family Business."

Mr. Heintzelman, a Certified Public Accountant, is a member of the American and Pennsylvania Institutes of Certified Public Accountant. Mr. Heintzelman is also a Certified Management Accountant (CMA), a certification that provides him with the management expertise to consult with business clients on operations, internal controls, and benchmarking. He is also a Certified Fraud Examiner (CFE), and leads the firm's forensic accounting and fraud prevention team.

Mr. Heintzelman writes a blog, "The Exuberant Accountant," which Entrepreneur Magazine has recognized as one of four best accounting blogs for gaining "a better understanding of your business finances." He also is a frequent guest lecturer on the subjects of Family Business, succession planning, employee engagement, fraud prevention, and social media marketing.

Mr. Heintzelman is a member of the Board of Trustees and the Executive Committee of Messiah College. Additionally, he serves on the Central Pennsylvania Advisory Board for M&T Bank and the Harrisburg Regional Chamber of Commerce Military Liaison Committee. He is a member of the Board of Directors for the Naaman Center, a faith-based drug and alcohol treatment center. He is also a member of the Southcentral Regional Board of the Second Mile and the Foundation Board for PinnacleHealth. He is a graduate of Leadership Harrisburg, a 2001 recipient of the Central Pennsylvania Business Journal's "Forty under 40" award and an Eagle Scout.