Company Profile

What are the core values that make Arcadia University distinctive?the values that persuade students to choose Arcadia over its competitors and to remain at the University through graduation?Arcadia's commitment to students includes opportunities to explore global perspectives, integrate theory with real world experiences, and benefit from the personal attention that is the hallmark of Arcadia's learning community. Through impressive collaboration, the Arcadia campus community has distilled the University's traditional strengths and values into a document called The Arcadia University Promise. The Arcadia Promise affirms that students will have a distinctively global, integrative and personal learning experience that prepares them to contribute and prosper in a diverse and dynamic world. The Arcadia Promise sums up the collective experiences of generations of alumni and the collective efforts of the faculty and staff who create Arcadia's distinguished learning environment. Arcadia students are challenged to achieve their full potential and recognize their ability and responsibility to make choices that affect the future of their world. Whether they pursue an undergraduate, graduate or continuing education path, they are part of a mutually supportive community. Through interactions with faculty, staff and peers representing a diversity of cultural backgrounds, they gain self-confidence and respect for others, learn by using the latest technologies, and acquire essential skills and knowledge that prepare them for a rich and meaningful life.

Company Profile

Evangelical Seminary is an interdenominational seminary established in 1953 and accredited by the Middle States Association and the Association of Theological Schools. The mission of Evangelical is, in partnership with the church, to develop servant leaders for effective ministry in a broken and complex world by nurturing rigorous minds, compassionate hearts, and Christ-centered actions. Evangelical offers a strong academic foundation in a supportive environment with faculty who are readily available and concerned for their student's academic success and spiritual development. The student to faculty ratio is approximately 10:1. Classes are available online or in person. Financial aid, including the William Randolph Hearst Presidential Scholarship, is available for recent college graduates who qualify. Degree offerings include the Master of Divinity (with tracks in Pastoral Ministry, Teaching Ministry, Youth Ministry, World Christianity and Marriage and Family Counseling); the Master of Arts in Religion (with concentrations in Old Testament, New Testament, Biblical Studies, Historical and Theological Studies, Spiritual Formation, World Christianity and Interdisciplinary Studies); Marriage and Family Therapy (a counseling degree which leads to state licensure), and short-term Graduate Certificates (in Youth Ministry, Lay Ministry, Marriage and Family Counseling and World Christianity). The twelve-acre campus includes on-campus housing; stately Christ Hall, the main campus facility; the ever expanding Pense Archaeological Museum; a campus fitness room; the recently updated Rostad Library, smart technology in each classroom; and campus hot spots for wireless devices.

Gordon-Conwell Theological Seminary is an educational institution serving the Lord and his Church. Our mission is to prepare men and women for ministry at home and abroad. The seminary undertakes this task as a training partner with the Church so that what is learned on campus may be complemented by the spiritual nurture and the exercise of ministry available through our mentoring programs in the Church. Those who work and study at Gordon-Conwell are united in the common belief that the abiding truth of God's written Word and the centrality of Christ's saving work are foundational to the seminary's mission. These principles structure the seminary's life and values, inform its curriculum and activities, and determine the evangelical perspective in which it sees its responsibilities in preparing students for ministry in the modern world.

Company Profile

Established in 1899, Philadelphia College of Osteopathic Medicine (PCOM) is a private, not for profit institution built on an over 100 year tradition of excellence in medical education. Students find the education program at PCOM is an optimal blend of classroom teaching, clinical experience and research. From the first day of medical school, PCOM students begin learning the osteopathic approach to health care: treating the whole person, not just the symptoms. Early clinical exposure through community service activities and formal course work implement basic science instruction. The curriculum is interdisciplinary, and includes topics such as medical ethics and medical law, and emphasizes primary care and prevention. Clinical training takes place at 97 affiliated institutions in and around Philadelphia. In addition, students may arrange to fulfill elective requirements in other states or in other countries. Joint degree programs lead to the DO/MBA, DO/MPH, DO/PhD and DO/MS. PCOM is committed to helping each of its students choose career that matches their specific talents and interests.

From our students, who come from all walks of life and all corners of the globe, to our graduates, who leave prepared to practice anywhere, Temple lawyers are trained to shape the law in service to the lives they touch. They are more than leaders: they are innovators whose thoughtfulness, vision, and courage are quickly put to work in our communities, our nation, and our world. It's what Russell H. Conwell envisioned when he founded Temple University in 1884 and it remains central to what we do today. At the heart of the Temple Law community is our outstanding faculty. They blend ground-breaking scholarship with real world experience and a passion for teaching, so that students can fully grasp the power of law to change lives. Temple law professors are not content to teach from the casebook and the podium; they are here on the strength of their leadership in the real world and they are committed to addressing problems in the real world. It is this passion – alive in our faculty, our students, and Temple lawyers everywhere – that makes Temple Law the place where law meets life. |

Welcome! The College of Liberal Arts and Sciences at Villanova University is an ideal place to pursue your graduate education. Founded in 1842, Villanova is a premier institution of higher education with five separate colleges and more than 10,000 undergraduate, graduate and law students. The program offerings in graduate arts and sciences include more than twenty master's degrees, forty-two pre- and post-master's certificates, and a Ph.D. in Philosophy. With a faculty of recognized scholars who have a passion for teaching, the programs are designed to meet the educational needs and goals of post-baccalaureate students. Villanova's ideal location just 12 miles west of Philadelphia combines a lovely suburban setting with access to the resources of America's first national capital and fifth largest city. A quick look at the university's profile will show you the breadth and diversity of educational activity that takes place on its beautiful campus. These are just a few reasons why Villanova has been chosen by both aspiring young scholars and working professionals for advanced graduate study for more than fifty years.
