During the 2003–2004 academic year, the Board of Trustees had a difficult challenge inherent to the identity and mission of our college. Sometimes change is uncomfortable and unyielding, and as a result, we welcome it. Changes are the very foundation of our commitment and the vision of the College which we share. With this change, we look toward the future. During this transition, and confidently rising to the challenge, we display an embracing evangelical spirit, communicating the good news of God’s love, success in preparing students to go into the working world or change careers, and contributing to the College’s continued growth. We are committed to this vision of the College. We are committed to our students. They connect us with churches, parents, alumni, and the larger community. They help us to plan for the future and make it possible. We bring our students into the world at change-agents—agents of change as they generously and graciously give their time and resources.

As trustees, we strive to fulfill our responsibilities conscientiously, facing the challenges of complex issues, faithfully maintaining a sacred mission, through the uncertainty of change, and confidently rising to the challenge of equipping and forming Messiah College’s educational mission. We do it with great expectations and hope that we look toward the future. During this transitional time, we will change our campus and rely upon your prayers, partnership, and the larger community. We look forward to the future, and with your support, the future will be bright.

THE MULBERRY FOUNDATION SCHOLARSHIP

WHAT DOES THE MULBERRY FOUNDATION ENSURE INVESTMENT MEAN TO YOU?

The Mulberry Foundation Scholarship helped me discover the location by enabling me to spend my summer on a Dominican Republic trip, a trip that would change my career. While there, I cultivated an interest in working on renewable energy projects. As I pursue this career, I’ll remember the impact of this scholarship.

The campaign is already enhancing students’ educa-tion on many levels. Boyer Hall, an early campaign proj-ect, which was dedicated in fall of 2006, is now home to countless classes and hosts many scholarly lectures and film screenings. Students benefit from its ongoing technology and central location. In the Larson Student Union, the most recently completed campaign project, students mingle with other students in the spacious atrium, enjoy smoothies and good conversa-tion, and attend a varied schedule of special events and cofFeerechos. The Union also provides comfortable space for various student programs and groups. Steinbrecher emphasizes that the College’s goal is to fund all campaign projects at their designated levels, but that the current focus of the campaign, the Climenhaga Fine Arts Center expansion, is now a key priority.

Interim President Kim Philp, who took office when former President Rodney J. Sawatsky retired in July, agrees: “Our mission is compelling and our needs are significant. It will allow us to continue to develop additional gifts for the arts center expansion. We have critical facility needs for our thriving music, theater, and visual arts programs, and for student scholarships and aca-demic enrichment,” she says. “The generous response of our trustees and friends to date has been extremelydolphins, and俞sha. There is no more important time to build and support our future with your gifts and focus on developing the qualities in them that will lead to the emergence of servant leaders in the world: intellect, character, and Christian faith.
