Why take an oral communication course?

To become more confident presentation speakers and illustrate speeches with visual aids.

To communicate ethically, responsibly, and effectively.

To be able to recognize key elements of communication, such as verbal and nonverbal communication, listening, feedback, and perception.

To assess your own communication skills and work strategically to improve them.

Resources

Why Study Communication?

How interpersonal communication competence will help you succeed in college

What Is a Competent Communicator?

Communication Skills for Workplace Success