Religion

To reflect on ethical and
moral values.

To recognize the
many ways religion
can be studied:
historically,
sociologically, and
more.

Why Study Religion?

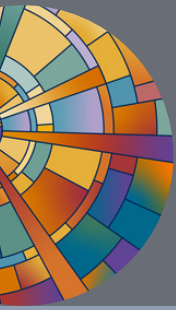

To understand the
complex relationship between religion and
culture locally,
nationally, and
globally.

To learn how
religions shape
individual
identity and self-
understanding.

To encounter
racial,
ethnic, cultural,
religious, and
national diversity.
